DETAILED ACTION

Response to Amendment

Continued Examination Under 37 CFR 1.114

A request for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, including the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e), was filed in this application after final rejection. Since this application is eligible for continued examination under 37 CFR 1.114, and the fee set forth in 37 CFR 1.17(e) has been timely paid, the finality of the previous Office action has been withdrawn pursuant to 37 CFR 1.114. Applicant's submission filed on 7/20/2007 has been entered.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claim 21 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. There is no disclosure of a constant predetermined rate of 0.00087 mL/sec in the specification.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3763

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

Claims 1-2, 11-13, 15-17, and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Langley et al. (2004/0054328). Langley discloses an electric syringe (2) that could be used for injecting a dental anesthetic by pressing a rubber plug of a cartridge (40) filled with an anesthetic, thereby injecting the anesthetic from a needlepoint of a dental needle (22) connected to the cartridge, the syringe comprising a push member (48) configured to press and move the rubber plug of the cartridge, a drive motor (54) configured to generate a drive force, a transmission mechanism (42) part configured to transmit the drive force to the push member, and a control unit (not shown) configured to control a moving of the push member by controlling the drive motor, wherein the control unit controls the drive motor to move the push member to linearly increase an injection speed of the anesthetic at a constant, predetermined rate at the beginning of the injection and until reaching a selected injection speed, and then to move the push member to inject the anesthetic at the selected in a constant injection speed without further increase after a predetermined time has elapsed (the control unit has at least two speeds at which the push member can be moved, it is the examiner's position that the push member linearly increases from zero to either speed), further comprising a sound output unit (the motor) configured to output a sound, wherein the control unit controls the sound output unit to output the sound during the injection of the anesthetic, and further including a cartridge holding connecting part (46) and a cartridge holder.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

The factual inquiries set forth in Graham v. John Deere Co., 383 U.S. 1, 148 USPQ 459 (1966), that are applied for establishing a background for determining obviousness under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) are summarized as follows:

1. Determining the scope and contents of the prior art.
2. Ascertaining the differences between the prior art and the claims at issue.
3. Resolving the level of ordinary skill in the pertinent art.
4. Considering objective evidence present in the application indicating obviousness or nonobviousness.

Claims 21 and 22 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Langley et al. (2004/0054328). Langley discloses all of the limitations as recited in the independent claims but fails to explicitly teach the recited predetermined rate and injection speeds. However, these parameters are deemed to be matters of design choice, well within the skill of an ordinary artisan, obtained through routine experimentation in determining optimum results.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 3-10 and 14 objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

Claims 18-19 are allowed.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-22 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
